Since 2009, Rizzo has been a part of the "India's Great Indian Films" project, a group which produces films and music that have both been screened in India and abroad. He has also been a part of the Indian independent cinema scene for the last few years, as he has performed numerous roles, such as leading a production of Pancham in Mumbai, as well as working a few other roles in different films. His first feature "Kanamal" is one of four films on the same name that he directed — the other two "Kanamal," a spin-off of "Kanaram" and a commercial release in 2014, and "Hari Shikar", which he directed and stars in in 2012 as 'Khanum' in Mumbai..
